

2026.1 Applicant Guide Targeted Recruitment

The RVTS 2026.1 Applicant Guide – Targeted Recruitment

This publication is a guide for doctors who wish to apply for the Remote Vocational Training Scheme (RVTS) for training commencing in 2026, for the January intake (2026.1). The guide includes important information on eligibility and selection to assist applicants.

For the purpose of this guide the following definitions apply:

Intake - an overall selection process that leads to the commencement of training in RVTS and may be made up of more than one round

Round - a selection process that takes place within an intake period

This publication is a guide only. While every effort has been made to ensure the information contained is correct at the time of publishing, changes are possible, and applicants should refer to the electronic version of this guide on our website at rvts.org.au/applicants/application_information

About RVTS

The RVTS is a General Practice/Rural Generalist training program available to doctors who, under ordinary circumstances, could not complete training without leaving their communities. The three-to-four-year program allows doctors to access training while they continue to provide medical services to their communities. The community retains their doctor while the doctor receives the benefits of training toward Fellowship qualifications in General Practice/Rural Generalism.

The program has 2 streams of trainees:

- The Remote Stream, for doctors working in remote and rural Australia,
- The AMS (Aboriginal Medical Service) Stream, providing support specifically for doctors in Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Services (ACCHS¹)

Both streams train towards fellowship qualifications of the RACGP and/or ACRRM. The training includes webinars, education workshops, remote supervision, and individualised training advice.

The Remote Stream has an intake of 22 doctors annually. Up to eleven positions will be filled per intake.

The AMS stream has an intake of 10 doctors annually. Up to five positions will be filled per intake.

In 2026 14 additional positions will be offered bring the total positions on offer to 46 for the year. The additional positions will be available to applicants from both the Remote and AMS streams.

At the time of applying, applicants must indicate whether their intention is to train towards fellowship of ACRRM or fellowship of RACGP, or both. Their training location must meet the requirements of the relevant College. If an applicant chooses to train towards both fellowships, their location must meet the requirements of both Colleges.

RACGP – Fellowship Requirements

ACRRM – Fellowship Requirements

Doctors who have Fellowship of ACRRM and/or RACGP are ineligible to apply for the RVTS training program.

¹ An Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Service (ACCHS) is a primary health care service initiated and operated by the local Aboriginal community to deliver holistic, comprehensive, and culturally appropriate health care to the community which controls it (through a locally elected Board of Management).

Targeted Recruitment

RVTS has expanded its traditional workforce retention / training model by piloting the recruitment of doctors to targeted remote communities with high medical workforce need.

Targeted Recruitment selection is based on eligibility of the training post and the applicant. Firstly, a remote training location must be nominated and approved for participation in the Targeted Recruitment Strategy. Secondly, the applicant must meet all the contractual requirements of the employer at the location, and finally, applicants must satisfy the RVTS selection eligibility criteria and be successful through the selection process. Applicants can only apply to one Targeted Recruitment location per year.

Participating Locations

There are at least 5 training positions available for Targeted Recruitment nationally. In 2026 more positions may be available according to demand. To ensure all training positions are filled, RVTS has selected a number of training locations across Australia. Please refer to the RVTS website for up to date Targeted Recruitment locations. The following criteria has been used to assess all training locations for targeted recruitment.

- a) GP Community Care. The positions must be providing continuing comprehensive whole-patient medical care to individuals, families and their communities.
- b) Geographic location. The locations must be within Modified Monash Model (MMM) Regions 4 to 7. For Aboriginal Medical Services, locations in MMM 2-3 will also be considered. Preference is given to more remote locations.
- c) High Medical Workforce Need. The positions must have a demonstrated and long-term high medical workforce need. Positions will normally require nomination from the State Rural Workforce Agency, State Government Health Department, Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Organisation (ACCHOs), or Royal Flying Doctors Service (RFDS).
- d) National Spread. RVTS aims for an equitable national spread of training positions across the country based on current ABS population data.

Key Dates

	2026.1
Applications Open	Monday 11 August 2025
Applications Close	Sunday 7 September 2025
Situational Judgement Test	29 September – 3 October 2025
Interviews	7 – 10 October 2025
Training commences	19 January 2025

Targeted Recruitment Process

Below is a summary of the recruitment and application process.

Step 1: Advertising: The practice advertises and sources eligible candidates for their vacancy. RVTS can assist by advertising via our existing networks also.

Step 2: Practice Recruitment Interview: The practice interviews the candidate/s to determine if the candidate/s is/are suitable for the position.

Step 3: Candidate Nomination/Application: Once the practice has identified and made an offer in writing to their preferred candidate(s), the practice notifies RVTS via email (applications@rvts.org.au) with the following:

- Candidate Name
- Candidate Phone
- Candidate Email and
- Candidate letter of offer (see details below)

On receipt of these details, RVTS will contact the doctor and provide the application documents and instructions (link will be provided by RVTS). The candidate completes the online application and uploads supporting documentation.

As part of the application process, the doctor will need to provide a copy of the letter of offer from the practice which:

- Is dated and signed by the Practice Principal, Senior Medical Officer, CEO, Director, or Practice Manager
- Is on practice letterhead
- Specifies the dates and duration of employment including the end date of the contract. If contract is ongoing (and has no end date) this needs to be indicated in the letter
- States whether the position is full-time or part-time and the total number of face-to-face, rostered, patient consultation hours and days worked each week
- Documents the nature of work including all duties performed

Step 4: RVTS Recruitment Process: RVTS will assess the application documentation against RVTS selection criteria and invite eligible candidates for an interview via videoconference, and to undertake an online Situational Judgement Test (SJT). Interviews and SJT's will be conducted over the dates specified in the Key Dates table above.

Eligibility Criteria

The RVTS eligibility requirements for individual doctors via targeted recruitment will be consistent with the existing RVTS recruitment process. Applicants that have been in place prior to publication and approval of the Targeted Recruitment location are ineligible for Targeted Recruitment but can apply through the Remote or AMS streams if applicable.

At the time of applying, applicants must meet the following criteria.

1. Medical Registration

- The doctor must have General, Provisional or Limited Registration for Area of Need with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA), AND
- The doctor must be at Medical Board of Australia Level 2, 3 or 4 supervision². Level 1 are not eligible for the RVTS Training Program, AND

2. Doctors with Limited Registration

- The doctor must be on the Australian Medical Council Standard Pathway³ and have successfully completed Australian Medical Council part 1 exam;
- Targeted Recruitment candidates must ensure they are eligible to work at the specified Targeted Recruitment location as per AHPRA requirements.

3. Doctors with Limited Registration

- Targeted Recruitment candidates with provisional registration must be able to provide evidence that they will have general registration by commencement of training.

Residency Status

Applications are accepted from Australian citizens, permanent residents and temporary residents. Temporary residents who have applied for permanent residency are required to provide evidence of their application for permanent residency.

Preference will be given to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander doctors.

Enrolment in other vocational training programs

All applicants are required to indicate whether they are currently enrolled in another vocational training program.

Doctors who have applied to the Australian General Practice Training Program (AGPT) or the ACRRM Independent Pathway for training commencing in 2025 must indicate this in their RVTS application.

Doctors who have applied or are currently enrolled in AGPT, ACRRM Independent Pathway or RACGP Fellowship Support Program (FSP) must upload with their application documents, a statutory declaration of their intention to resign, should their application to RVTS be successful. The eligibility of candidates who have been enrolled in an Australian Government Funded GP training program for two or more years, will be evaluated on a case-case basis.

Candidates in other vocational training programs which lead to specialist medical registration outside of the RVTS program such as Fellowship of the Australasian College for Emergency Medicine (FACEM) etc. must obtain approval from RVTS to remain in that program prior to commencement of training with RVTS. RVTS training must not be compromised by a registrar being enrolled in another vocational training program.

The Selection Process

Interview

A panel of RVTS representatives will interview selected applicants by online videoconference using a multiple mini-interview (MMI) process.

The interview process will allow applicants to demonstrate their suitability for entry into the RVTS training program.

Applicants will be assessed against the following criteria:

1. Interest in and commitment to rural and remote practice/ AMS Practice
2. Professional development
3. Communication skills
4. Time management
5. Applied clinical knowledge
6. Willingness to receive feedback and learn from it
7. Ethical practice

Each criterion will be scored from 1 to 7:

- 1 being significantly below satisfactory
- 7 being significantly above satisfactory
- 4 being borderline

Situational Judgement Test

All eligible applicants selected for interview will be required to undertake an online Situational Judgement Test (SJT).

The SJT score will contribute to the final score used to rank candidates.

The SJT must be completed in isolation at the applicant's practice, with either their practice manager or practice nurse to act as Invigilator.

Candidates are given 100 minutes to complete 50 questions with a combination of single best answer, multiple correct answer and ranking questions.

Outcome

An applicant will be considered suitable for RVTS if:

- Their interview score is equal to or greater than 32, AND
- Their SJT score is equal to or greater than 32 OR
- Their interview or SJT score is 31 and their aggregate score is greater than or equal to 64

Training places will be offered based on a ranked aggregated interview and SJT score, and satisfactory referee report.

The offer will only apply for the location referred to in the application. If a successful applicant does not commence training in the location referred to in their application, they will forfeit their place on the program.

Additional Points:

- RVTS will assess up to 1 eligible candidates from each position available.
- Applicants who are RVTS Participants on a Bridging Medicare Provider Number will automatically be considered eligible and be offered a training place pending satisfactory referee checks.

Further requirements

All applicants must continue to work in an eligible RVTS location for the duration of their training, except for approved hospital and advanced skills posts. If a successful applicant leaves their training location, they will forfeit their place in the training program.

College Exams

Applicants must provide details and evidence of all attempts at any segments of ACRRM or RACGP exams, including date of exam and the outcome at the time of application. Applicants need to be aware of the RACGP restriction on exam attempts. Candidates have six enrolments over a period of three years to pass all three Fellowship exam segments (not including periods of approved leave). RACGP Fellowship Exams Policy. Applicants must have sufficient exam cycle remaining to be eligible to attain Fellowship.

The RACGP must have been enrolled in RVTS for at least 12 months before being eligible to sit any exam segment. For RVTS Registrars, the 3-year time limit is suspended until they have met the exam eligibility requirements of the program (12 months).⁴ ACRRM Registrars must have been enrolled in RVTS for at least 12 months before being eligible to sit the ACRRM MCQ, and 2 years to undertake Case Based Discussion and StAMPS. RPL may reduce this time. In certain circumstances, ACRRM, allows registrars to undertake exams in their first year of training. Only in exceptional circumstances will RVTS recommend that a registrar sits at this time.

Applicants must have sufficient exam cycles remaining to be eligible to attain Fellowship.

Registration

Limited Registration Doctors on the Australian Medical Council Standard Pathway

RVTS requirements are additional to any requirements laid out by AHPRA. Doctors with Limited Registration with AHPRA may have a requirement to obtain General or Specialist Registration within a certain time frame. Training with RVTS does not remove the need to meet this requirement.

Limited or Provisional Registration Doctors on Medical Board of Australia level 1 supervision

Since supervision is normally undertaken remotely, doctors must have a minimum of Level 2, 3 or 4 supervision. Doctors with Level 1 supervision requirements are ineligible for the RVTS Training Program. It is up to a doctor with Limited or Provisional Registration to examine their individual registration requirements very carefully and consult with AHPRA prior to joining RVTS. Targeted Recruitment candidates with provisional registration must be able to provide evidence that they will have general registration by commencement of training.

RVTS will not accept responsibility for loss of registration due to failure to meet Medical Board registration requirements.

Applicants who have Conditions, Undertakings or Reprimands with AHPRA are not eligible to apply.

Applicants who have any current or pending cases with AHPRA that may result in future Conditions, Undertakings or Reprimands to their medical registration are required to provide these details at time of application. This requirement excludes supervision requirements that apply to International Medical Graduates (IMG's) with Limited or Provisional Registration.

RVTS provides training toward FRACGP/FRACGP-RG and FACRRM. Once Fellowship of ACRRM or RACGP is achieved, doctors with Limited Registration are able to apply to AHPRA for Specialist Registration as a General Practitioner. In order to legally practice in a broad range of environments, General Registration is required. RVTS doctors with Limited Registration may apply for General Registration if they have attained the AMC Certificate and can demonstrate that they have completed the equivalent of an intern year. RVTS doctors with Limited Registration on the AMC Standard Pathway are encouraged to complete their AMC Certificate while training with RVTS.

Termination of Training

Delivery of the RVTS training program is dependent on funding from the Australian Government. If at any time this funding is discontinued, RVTS training may cease. The training may also be ended by RVTS if a participant does not achieve satisfactory progress or no longer meets location, practice status or medical registration and residency requirements, or there is found to have been a material error in their application. If the training location fails or refuses to comply with its agreement with RVTS, registrar participation in the program may be suspended or terminated by RVTS.

Disclaimer

By making an application, you release, hold harmless and indemnify RVTS, its officers, staff and agents from and against any liability arising from or as a result of:

- the application;
- any refusal of or delay in granting any application;
- training (or failure or delay in providing that training); or
- otherwise howsoever arising (including negligence).

Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, in no circumstances shall RVTS, its officers, staff and agents be liable for special, indirect or consequential loss or damages.

The selection process remains at the unfettered discretion of RVTS. RVTS will not provide reasons for its decisions and is not subject to rules of natural justice.

Acceptance into RVTS does not imply that training will automatically be recognised towards fellowship of either ACRRM or RACGP.

In particular, it is up to individual doctors to determine whether their location will be suitable for ACRRM training if they are intending to progress toward FACRRM.
