RVTS TARGETED RECRUITMENT PILOT

The Remote Vocational Training Scheme (RVTS) assists the recruitment of doctors to targeted rural and remote communities with high medical workforce need, by including the RVTS GP Vocational Training program as a component of the doctor recruitment package. Since 2018, RVTS has successfully assisted the recruitment of 38 doctors to 41 rural and remote locations across Australia, including 12 Aboriginal Medical Services.

RVTS Training is a four-year GP and Rural Generalist training program delivered by Distance Education and Remote Supervision leading to Fellowship of the ACRRM and/or RACGP. RVTS Training is fully funded by the Australian Government.

The Targeted Recruitment model has brought workforce stability and enhanced continuity of care to the participating communities, as well as career progression to specialist qualifications for the recruited doctors. The RVTS Targeted Recruitment strategy is an Australian Government Initiative.

Moree is a rural town in northern New South Wales located on the banks of the Mehi River, in the centre of the rich black-soil plains. Moree is a major agricultural centre, noted for its part in the Australian cotton-growing industry with a population of 7000.

The Weraeraj and Kamilaroi peoples are the earliest known inhabitants of the area, and the town's name is said to come from an Aboriginal word for "rising sun", "long spring", or "water hole".

Moree possesses a semi-arid influenced humid subtropical climate with very hot, sometimes humid summers and mild, dry winters with cool nights. Mean annual rainfall is moderately low peaking in the summer months with severe thunderstorms.

Pius X Aboriginal Corporation delivers culturally appropriate services and programs aimed at improving the health and wellbeing of the Aboriginal Community. Our goal is to provide the highest standard of client care while incorporating a holistic approach toward diagnosis and management of illness. This position is for a doctor providing general practice services to community, working alongside a group of highly experienced GPs and health professionals.
