RVTS TARGETED RECRUITMENT PILOT

The Remote Vocational Training Scheme (RVTS) assists the recruitment of doctors to targeted rural and remote communities with high medical workforce need, by including the RVTS GP Vocational Training program as a component of the doctor recruitment package. Since 2018, RVTS has successfully assisted the recruitment of 43 doctors to 46 rural and remote locations across Australia, including 12 Aboriginal Medical Services.

RVTS Training is a four-year GP and Rural Generalist training program delivered by Distance Education and Remote Supervision leading to Fellowship of the ACRRM and/or RACGP. RVTS Training is fully funded by the Australian Government.

The Targeted Recruitment model has brought workforce stability and enhanced continuity of care to the participating communities, as well as career progression to specialist qualifications for the recruited doctors. The RVTS Targeted Recruitment strategy is an Australian Government Initiative.

Narooma is a rural town on the south coast of New South Wales with a population of 3000. The town is surrounded by ocean, lakes and rivers and is well known for aquatic sports and recreation. The name Narooma is derived from the local Indigenous language meaning place of clear blue waters.

Narooma has an oceanic climate with mild temperatures throughout the year. It is fairly sunny, getting over 100 clear days annually. The town's geographical position shelters it from intense Tasman lows and other rain-bearing systems from the east accounting its relatively low rainfall and temperate climate.

Lighthouse Surgery is part of the Braveheart Health which also operates the nearby Bermagui Medical Centre. The practice has a long tradition of supporting GP registrars and Medical Students seeking to pursue a career in rural medicine. This position is for a doctor providing general practice services to community, working alongside a group of highly experienced GPs and health professionals.
